lines and they're falling. I think the greens are very, very good for my game.

Q. You played pretty steady today it looks like.

What was the key to that?

JENNIFER HAHN: Basically just staying patient was a big factor to that. Ball-striking wasn't as good as yesterday. I was kind of crooked off the tee, found myself in the rough a lot hitting punch shots, but I gave myself the best chances to save or get up-and-down for par, so I executed those pretty good today.

Q. Would you say your putter kind of saved you today?

JENNIFER HAHN: Actually it kind of let me down. I didn't make as many birdies, and I gave myself a couple of good opportunities, especially on the back nine. But when I needed to make the par putts, I did.

Q. Right now you're projected to be one of the top seeds. How important is that?

JENNIFER HAHN: I think it's important, but anything can happen. We've seen in the years past that it doesn't guarantee you to win the match. You've just got to play it as a brand-new round.

Q. How do you approach match play differently than stroke play?

JENNIFER HAHN: I guess match play I'm just going to still play my game, but match play you're definitely conscious of what the opponent is doing, and I'll play a little more aggressive during match play.

Q. Mechanically are you going to change anything up?

JENNIFER HAHN: Mechanically, no, nothing.

Q. Were you happy with your approach shots these last two days?

JENNIFER HAHN: Yeah, really, really happy with the way I've been hitting it. My irons have been really good, putting has been really good, so I might work on a few tee shots, but other than that, pretty happy.

Q. What part of this golf course is best for your game do you think?

JENNIFER HAHN: I really think the greens are very true to what we see is what we get, so I'm hitting my
