Doc Redman Wins the 2017 Championship

Doc Redman, of Raleigh, N.C., completed a comeback for the history books on Sunday by making an eagle and a birdie on the 35th and 36th holes, then adding a conceded birdie on the 37th hole to defeat Doug Ghim, of Arlington Heights, Ill., and capture the 117th U.S. Amateur Championship at The Riviera Country Club. It was a final match that featured brilliant shot-making and putting by both Redman and Ghim, with neither player holding larger than a 2-up lead.

“It’s incredible to add my name to the list of all the champions and to have conquered arguably the best field in amateur golf in a really difficult grind,” said Redman, 19, who earned his No. 62 seed in match play on Wednesday morning with a par on the 10th hole, the same hole where he would complete his stirring comeback four days later. “I beat some of the best players in the world, and I hope that this can catapult me up into that conversation as well going forward.”

Redman, a sophomore at Clemson University who had a remarkable string of one-putt greens, missed an 8-foot par putt on the par-3 34th hole to go 2 down with two holes to play. But he rallied to square the match by dropping a 60-foot putt from the back of the green for an eagle on the par-5 17th, then converting an 8-footer for birdie on No. 18. Ghim had putts for birdie on No. 17 and for par on No. 18, but never got the chance to attempt either of them.

It was a disappointing outcome for Ghim. While he trailed for 16 holes through late in the morning 18 until the 11th hole of the afternoon round, he won the 31st and 34th holes to go 2 up and dormie. Then Redman dropped the bomb of a putt on No. 17.

“When it went in, it was like, wow, OK – that’s quite a blow,” said Ghim, the winner of the Pacific Coast Amateur last month and the No. 7 player in the World Amateur Golf Ranking™. “My dad kept reminding me on the next hole that you are still winning. He might’ve just made the putt of his life, but you are still winning this and you have to make him go get it from you.”

Redman, the No. 70 player in the world, did just that. On the iconic 475-yard 18th, he drove into the right rough near some large trees, and was forced to hit a fade with his 9-iron from 167 yards. He curled the approach shot perfectly, setting himself up with an 8-foot putt for birdie directly below the hole. Ghim, who had left his approach short of the green, pitched up to within short distance before Redman buried the putt to send the match to extra holes.

On the 37th hole, Riviera’s famed 315-yard par 4 10th, Redman drilled his tee shot into perfect position, at the front entrance to the steep, narrow green that runs away from the player. Ghim hooked his 3-wood tee shot into nasty rough and was forced to thrash the ball out with a wedge. It came out hot and ran through the green into the front bunker. After going bunker to bunker, then missing his bogey putt, Ghim conceded Redman’s 12-footer for birdie, and the match.

The putt on No. 17, after a second shot on the par 5 that ran through to the back of the green, triggered the unlikely comeback for Redman, who joined Ghim later on Sunday as one of 10 players named to the USA Walker Cup Team for the Match against Great Britain and Ireland in three weeks at The Los Angeles Country Club.

“All that was going through my head was about making the putt and putting a good stroke on it,” Redman said. “Honestly, I was just going through, you know, ‘you’re going to make this, you’re going to make this, and it worked out well.’”

Redman’s round was marked by an uncanny ability to hole putts, none bigger than on the 35th hole, but also several putts that kept Ghim at bay in the morning, and kept his opponent from extending his lead in the afternoon. In the morning, Redman knocked in a sweeping 40-footer for birdie on No. 13 to take his first lead, then kept Ghim from drawing even by holing a 30-footer for par on No. 16.

“I always have a lot of confidence from mid-range,” said Redman, the ACC Freshman Player of the Year for 2016-17. “When I see one go in, I definitely get big eyes and I know that I can make anything. That’s what happened today. It was a really special putting day, obviously.”

Ghim had defeated Sahith Theegala in 19 holes in the Round of 32, and Redman earned a pair of 1-up victories en route to the final, but their combined 10 match wins were just a prelude to the championship final. The players combined for 10 birdies in the morning, with Redman shooting 4-under 66 and Ghim 1-under 69, with only three holes won – two by Redman and one by Ghim.

“Especially in that first round, we were both playing so well,” said Redman, who received a phone call of encouragement on Saturday evening from Dabo Swinney, coach of Clemson’s national championship football team. “I played really well on that back nine, and he stuck with me shot for shot and I stuck with him. Then the wind picked up on the second 18 and it was a totally different game. We both just hung tough.”

Redman grabbed a 2-up lead with another long putt, a 30-foot birdie on the 20th hole, and although their pattern of halving holes continued – 10 of the next 13 were halved in pars – Ghim took advantage of a couple of loose tee shots by Redman early in the final nine to take a 1-up lead, his first advantage since the 11th tee in the morning. When Redman missed the green on the par-3 34th hole and – in a rarity – missed his par save from 8 feet, Ghim seemed in firm control.

“I felt like I did everything that I could to force him to make incredible shots,” said Ghim. “He stepped up and did it, and kudos to him. I’m very happy for him.”

Championship History

The U.S. Amateur Championship is the oldest USGA championship and it was created in 1895 because of a controversy. In 1894, two clubs -- Newport (R.I.) Golf Club and New York's St. Andrew's Golf Club -- had conducted invitational tournaments to attract the nation's top amateur players.

Both clubs proclaimed their winners as the national champion, while Charles Blair Macdonald, a prominent player and course architect, was the runner-up in both.

Before the final day of the St. Andrew's tournament, it was announced that an association composed of all the clubs in the United States would be formed in the ensuing months. This new national governing body would oversee a universally recognized championship and create a written set of rules.

With that, representatives from Newport Golf Club, St. Andrew's Golf Club, The Country Club in Brookline, Mass., Shinnecock Hills Golf Club in Southampton, N.Y., and Chicago Golf Club founded the USGA on Dec. 22, 1894, and the inaugural U.S. Amateur Championship was conducted the following year, along with the U.S. Open and U.S. Women's Amateur.

The Amateur and Open Championships were conducted at Newport Golf Club during the same week of October and Macdonald became the first U.S. Amateur champion.

The Amateur Championship is the oldest golf championship in this country — one day older than the U.S. Open. Except for an eight-year period from 1965-1972, when it was stroke play, the Amateur has been a match-play championship.

Over the years, as interest in the game grew and the number of quality players increased, it became necessary to establish a national handicapping system to determine who was eligible to compete in the Amateur. The USGA's first national handicap list, which was published for the 1912 championship, was the forerunner of the present-day USGA Handicap System.

Throughout its history, the U.S. Amateur has been the most coveted of all amateur titles. Many of the great names of professional golf, such as Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Lanny Wadkins, Craig Stadler, Jerry Pate, Mark O'Meara, Hal Sutton, Phil Mickelson and Tiger Woods, grace the Havemeyer Trophy.

It was, however, longtime amateur Robert T. Jones Jr. who first attracted media coverage and spectator attendance at the Amateur Championship. Jones captured the championship five times (1924, 1925, 1927, 1928, 1930). His 1930 victory was a stunning moment in golf history when, at Merion Cricket Club in Ardmore, Pa., Jones rounded out the Grand Slam, winning the four major American and British championships in one year.

Sixty-six years later, in 1996, Tiger Woods attracted similar interest and enthusiasm when he won a record third consecutive U.S. Amateur at Pumpkin Ridge Golf Club in North Plains, Ore. In 1994, Woods, at 18, had first entered the record book as the youngest ever to win the Amateur Championship. In 1996, he broke yet another record when he won, having registered 18 consecutive match-play victories.

International players also have made a major impact in the last 15 years, with Nick Flanagan (Australia), Edoardo Molinari (Italy), Richie Ramsay (Scotland), Danny Lee (New Zealand), Byeong-Hun An (Korea), Matthew Fitzpatrick (England), Gunn Yang (Korea) and Curtis Luck (Australia) taking the title in 2003, 2005, 2006, 2008, 2009, 2013, 2014 and 2016, respectively.
