Kelsey Chugg Wins the 2017 Championship

The first stroke-play round of her U.S. Women's Mid-Amateur Championship debut last Saturday didn't go so well for Kelsey Chugg.

That's not so well, as in a 13-over-par 85 on Champions Golf Club's Cypress Creek Course. As in a closing stretch of 7 over par on her final six holes that left her "crying a little bit" in her car. But she spoke with her coach, Lynsey Myers, afterward and rebounded with an even-par 72 on Sunday to earn the No. 50 seed for match play. Four days and six match-play victories later, she is the 31st U.S. Women's Mid-Amateur champion.

"I was pretty upset," recalled Chugg, 26, of Salt Lake City, Utah. "I was playing pretty well coming into this [championship] and I was mad at myself. My coach said, 'Just go practice; get your head in the game and get your tempo back.'"

From Sunday through Thursday, Chugg kept an incredibly even keel, never needing to play the 18th hole in any of her six wins. She defeated two of the three co-medalists (2015 champion Lauren Greenleaf and Marissa Mar) along the way and capped her charge with a 3-and-1 victory on Thursday over No. 56 seed Mary Jane Hiestand, 58, of Naples, Fla.

With her early stroke-play struggles a distant memory, Chugg was still in disbelief after her victory earned her a berth in the 2018 U.S. Women's Open at Shoal Creek – the first Women's Mid-Amateur champion to take advantage of that recently announced exemption.

"It's just been a crazy week – I can't believe I pulled it off," said Chugg, the membership director for the Utah Golf Association. "This is really exciting for me to be able to bring this home for Utah and the golf community there."

Chugg's victory dashed the hopes of Hiestand, who was bidding to become the oldest Women's Mid-Amateur champion by six years. Hiestand's run to the final was much more dramatic than Chugg's – it included a pair of 1-up wins on Tuesday and two 19-hole victories on Wednesday, including a semifinal win over No. 4 seed Shannon Johnson, last year's runner-up, when Hiestand converted a 48-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole.

"I knew she was a seasoned player, and I heard she was a really good putter," said Chugg of Hiestand, who was competing in her 43rd USGA championship. "She lived up to her name; on the first hole she drained a 24-footer for par, and it got to me."

Chugg gathered herself and won Nos. 2 and 3. The third hole, a 352-yard par 4, provided the biggest swing of the match, as Chugg looked to be in trouble when a poor chip left her with a par putt from 38 feet. Hiestand was on in two, and her putt from just outside Chugg's ball left her with a 4-footer for par. However, Chugg made hers and Hiestand missed, and Chugg had a lead she would never relinquish.

"She had a similar line to me [with her birdie putt], and I was like, I think I can make this," said Chugg. "[Caddie] Chris [Schuhmann] and I agreed on the line, and I just said, keep your head down and hit the putt, and it went right in the center."

Hiestand had chances on three consecutive holes from No. 7 to whittle her two-hole deficit, but every putt slid past the edge. Chugg cited her own up-and-down from a bunker on No. 7 that forced Hiestand to make birdie to win the hole. When she three-putted the par-4 10th hole for bogey as Chugg made a comfortable two-putt par, Hiestand was 3 down.

"I made nothing," said Hiestand, whose previous best USGA finish was the semifinal round in the 2013 U.S. Senior Women's Amateur. "All three of them were right over the edge of the hole. It's a putter's golf course and that's my game. For me not to make anything is amazing, but you have those days."

Hiestand slipped to 4 down after she missed the green long and left on the par-5 13th and made a bogey, while Chugg made a testing 5½-footer for par. Chugg suffered a couple of lapses on No. 14 (where a poor approach led to a double bogey) and No. 16 (she flew the green and failed to get up and down), but she closed out Hiestand on the 17th hole when her opponent three-putted and conceded Chugg's short par putt.

"I think I just lost focus for a second on No. 14," said Chugg, whose best previous finish in five USGA starts was the Round of 32 in the 2011 U.S. Women's Amateur Public Links. "I was just happy not to have to play another hole, because I was leaking oil a little bit."

"Kudos to her – she's a real solid player," said Hiestand. "She made everything today. That's what it takes to win a championship."

Chugg, who becomes the fifth player from Utah to win a USGA championship, was asked whether she might have snuck up on some of her opponents, most of whom might not have been acquainted with the former Weber State University player who has won the Utah Women's Amateur four times

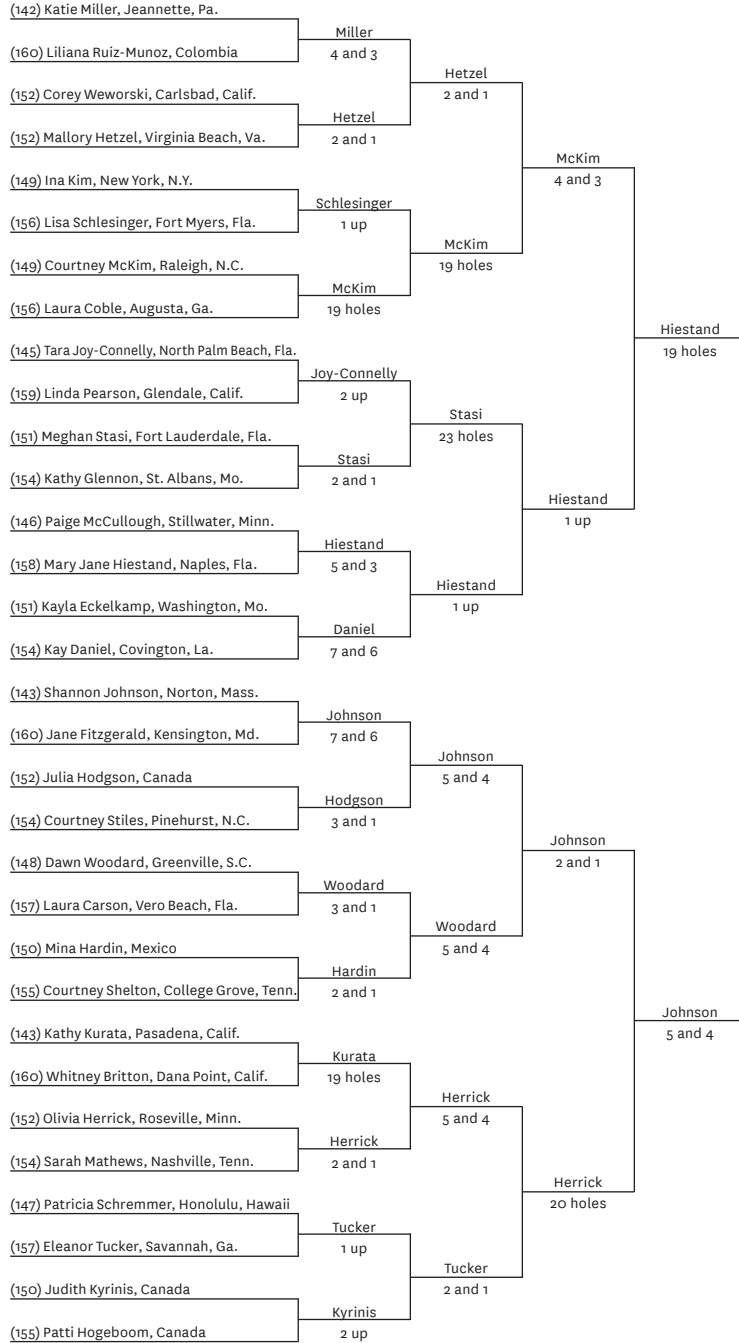

"It's funny – on Tuesday when I was going to play Lauren Greenleaf, [two-time champion] Julia Potter's fiancé, Kiel [Bob] told me, 'That's going to be a tough match – but she doesn't know who she's up against,'" said Chugg. "That gave me some confidence, him telling me that."

A little confidence – along with that post-round discussion with her coach on Saturday – helped earn Chugg the Mildred Prunaret Trophy and a spot in the U.S. Women's Open.

The USGA relocated this championship from Quail Creek Country Club in Naples, Fla., to Champions Golf Club due to extensive flood damage from Hurricane Irma. The Women's Mid-Amateur was originally scheduled to be played Oct. 7-12.

Championship History

The U.S. Women's Mid-Amateur Championship began in 1987 as a result of a need determined by an ad hoc committee headed by Dena Nowotny, a member of the USGA Women's Committee.

The Women's Mid-Amateur, the USGA's 13th championship, was created to provide a national competitive arena for amateurs age 25 and older.

By 1987, it had become increasingly difficult for female amateur golfers beyond college to compete equitably with their collegiate counterparts, for whom golf was nearly a full-time vocation. One must go back to 1973 and Carol Semple Thompson to find the last career amateur to win the U.S. Women's Amateur.

As with any new championship, there was initial concern with the level of entries. In this case, women amateurs responded with enthusiasm. The first championship attracted 320 entries, only 29 fewer than the number that had entered the 1987 Women's Amateur a few weeks earlier.

The starting field of 135 players was determined by sectional qualifying. The first Women's Mid-Amateur was played at Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Okla., and was won by Cindy Scholefield, 27, of Malibu, Calif.

The Women's Mid-Amateur has been the setting for a number of noteworthy finals. In 1989, Robin Weiss, of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., defeated Page Marsh Lea on the 22nd hole. In 1990, despite the tremendous pressure of competing on her home course as a crowd favorite, Carol Semple Thompson, 41, of Sewickley, Pa., defeated Marsh Lea, 3 and 1, at the Allegheny Country Club, where Semple Thompson had learned the game.

Two women have won the Women's Mid-Amateur on four occasions. In 2011, Ellen Port, of St. Louis, Mo., captured her fourth championship title with a 2-and-1 victory over 2009 champion Martha Leach at Bayville Golf Club in Virginia Beach, Va. Having previously won in 1991, 1993 and 2000, Port's 11-year span between victories broke the record of seven years, set by Thompson in 1997.

The following year, Meghan Stasi, of Oakland Park, Fla., won her fourth Women's Mid-Amateur, taking a 6-and-5 victory over Liz Waynick at Briggs Ranch Golf Club in San Antonio, Texas. She won back-to-back titles in 2006 and 2007 under her maiden name of Bolger, and also took the victory in 2010.

Sarah LeBrun Ingram, of Nashville, Tenn., in 1994 became the first player to take consecutive Women's Mid-Amateur championships. She had previously won in 1991 and 1993.
