USA Wins the 2010 Championship

The USA claimed its second consecutive Copa de las Americas overall championship with a 72-hole total of 10-over-par 1158 to win by 12 strokes over host Argentina at Olivos Golf Club in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Canada and Colombia finished tied for third at 1184.

“The team was patient and focused,” said USA Captain Steve Smyers. “They didn’t get ahead of themselves. It’s fun to watch the team bond together and interact with each other so well. They are serious about it. They are dedicated.”

According to Smyers, the second round served as the key moment when his team managed a 22-stroke turnaround on the 18-hole leaders from Argentina. It helped the fourth-place USA catapult from a 10-stroke deficit to a 12-stroke lead.

“We turned it around in the second round,” said Smyers. “And we got a tremendous momentum boost by keeping the lead in the third round.”

The USA, which swept the competition categories in Canada in 2007, also won the women’s team competition, with a record-low score of 583. Argentina won the men’s competition.

“Winning as a team is so good,” said the USA’s Jennifer Song, who won the 2009 U.S. Women’s Amateur and the U.S. Women’s Amateur Public Links. “You can never be happier than winning as a team. It takes so much effort.”

For the USA, Song, Nathan Smith and Peter Uihlein — the latter two were members of the 2009 USA Walker Cup Match Team — each shot 72; Jessica Korda added a 75.

In the overall competition, Argentina was able to narrow a 14-stroke USA third-round lead to 10 strokes but finished at 1170 with a quartet of junior players, 15-year-olds Victoria Tanco and Manuela Carbajo Re and 17-year-olds Emiliano

Grillo and Tomas Cocha.

“We got out of the general tournament with those bad rounds on the second day,” said Argentine Captain Miguel Leeson. “Emiliano had a great tournament. The USA was just steady and it was very difficult to get it back against those players.”

Canada had won two of the past three Copa competitions.

In the men’s event, Argentina and the USA entered the final day tied for the lead. The Argentines (570) pulled ahead for the gold medal over the USA (575) and Canada (578) in second and third place, respectively.

In the women’s competition, the USA was led by a strong final 36 holes from Song, who was the low amateur at the 2009 U.S. Women’s Open. She posted rounds of 68-72 in the final two days. At 583, the Americans were ahead of Colombia (593) and Argentina (600), respectively.

The low individual scorers were Argentina’s Grillo for the men at 7-under-par 279, and Andrea Jun of Paraguay and Juliana Murcia of Colombia for the women at 1-over-par 289.

Olivos Golf Club, which was used for the second and fourth rounds, played at par 71 for the men and par 72 for the women. Buenos Aires Golf Club, which was used for the first and third rounds, played at par 72 for both the men and women.

The Copa de las Americas is a biennial team event for amateurs in North, Central and South America as well as the Caribbean that began in 2003. It consists of three competitions — overall, men and women. At Buenos Aires and Olivos Golf Clubs, 15 men’s teams, 12 women’s teams and 11 overall teams competed in the 72 holes of stroke play with the lowest aggregate score claiming trophies in each of the three competitions.

2010 Championship Notes

Leaders

Round 1 — Argentina at 3-over-par 291, by seven strokes over Canada and Paraguay. Round 2 — USA at 15-over-par 589, by three strokes over Canada and four strokes over Colombia. Round 3 — USA at 5-over-par 867, by 14 strokes over Argentina and 19 strokes over Canada.

Weather

Cool start on Wednesday but sunny and breezy with highs in the high 70s. Sunny on Thursday with highs in the high 70s. Same weather but warmer in the 80s on Friday and in the low 90s on Saturday.

Notes

In the first round: Argentina's Victoria Tanco had the best day for the women, shooting a 1-under-par 71, which is the lowest first-round individual score in the history of the Copa de las Americas.

In the second round: For the USA, Peter Uihlein's 69 tied for the lowest second-round individual score in Copa history while Jessica Korda (69) and Jennifer Song (75) combined for a 144, the lowest second-round team score in Copa history ... Korda's score was the lowest second-round individual women's score in Copa history.

In the third round: The two lowest scores in the history of the championship were fired by Argentine players, a 64 by Emiliano Grillo and a 65 by Tanco ... In addition to the individual records of Grillo and Tanco, the USA women, at 141, totaled the lowest team score ... The USA and Argentina men, at 137, shot the second-lowest team total.

In the final round: The USA's winning total of 1158 was the second-best overall total in the history of the competition, two strokes behind Canada's 1156 winning score in 2005 ... Its 12-stroke win tied Canada in 2003 for second-largest margin of victory ... The USA women's total of 583 broke the record for the lowest score ... The previous low was 592 by Canada in 2003 ... Argentina's men's total of 139 in the fourth round tied a Copa record.

General: Roberto De Vicenzo, 86, Argentina's first great international star, attended the final round of the Copa de las Americas ... The 1989 inductee into the World Golf Hall of Fame lives in the southern part of Buenos Aires ... De Vicenzo won the 1967 British Open and the inaugural U.S. Senior Open Championship in 1980 ... In 1970, he was presented the USGA's highest prize, the Bob Jones Award ... Olivos Golf Club has been the site of the Argentine Masters since 1961

... The event has not been played every year since then but it is now co-sanctioned by the Tour de las Americas and the Canadian Tour ... Buenos Aires Golf Club hosted the 2000 World Cup, the two-player professional event held every two years ... Each club has hosted the most important Argentine events of recent years, including the Argentine Open (Olivos G.C. nine times and Buenos Aires G.C. six times) and the Argentine Amateur and Women's Amateur Championships ... At Buenos Aires Golf Club (which has 27 holes), which was used for the first and third rounds, the championship golf course was made up of the Green Course (outward nine) and the Yellow Course (inward nine) ... At Olivos Golf Club (which has three nines), the White Course was the outward nine and the Red Course was the inward nine ... Eighteen of the 54 competitors (nine men and nine women) had played in past World Amateur Team Championships, which was played on these same two courses in October 2010 ... In addition, 11 of those with WATC experience played in 2008 ... Beatriz de Arenas of Guatemala led all of the competitors with six appearances at World Amateur competitions ... 22 of the competitors are former, current or future players at American colleges or universities ... Juliana Murcia of Colombia was a member of Arizona State's NCAA Division I Championship team in 2009 and Canada's Matt Hill, playing for North Carolina State, won the NCAA Division I men's individual title ... Canada's Nick Taylor was the low amateur at the 2009 U.S. Open and shot 65 in the second round ... Taylor was an Olympic torch bearer prior to the Winter Games in Vancouver in February ... The USA's Jennifer Song was the low amateur at the 2009 U.S. Women's Open, where she tied for 13th ... Her teammate Jessica Korda also made the cut at the 2009 Women's Open, shooting 69 in the final round ... Three of the team captains are past participants in the World Amateur ... Doug Roxburgh of Canada played in six Eisenhower Trophy competitions including the 1972 championship at Olivos Golf Club ... Cristian Vargas of Chile and Arturo Tapia of Panama also played in past Eisenhower Trophy competitions ... Copa de las Americas participants, delegates and families, on the buses provided by the Argentine Golf Association, traveled on the widest street in the world — Avenida 9 de Julio, in downtown Buenos Aires, which features nine lanes and measures 460 feet wide.
