Korea Wins The 2010 Championship

Korea broke the record for the lowest score and won the 2010 Women's World Amateur Team Championship by 17 strokes over the USA to claim its second Espirito Santo Trophy at Olivos Golf Club in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The Koreans, who also won the title in 1996 in the Philippines, shot 30-under-par 546 and demolished the 72-hole scoring mark of 558 set by the USA in 1998. Overall, the Koreans have won four medals in the championship and finished second in 1994 and 2000. Their margin of victory was just four strokes shy of the record of 21 by the USA in 1998.

"This is the second time we have won this event and I would like to thank the players for the victory," said Korean coach Jong-Il Kim. "They played very well."

Hyun-Soo Kim and Jung-Eun Han shot 69 and 70, respectively. The 71 from Ji-Hee Kim was discarded.

"I never looked at the leader board," said Hyun-Soo Kim, who was the low amateur at the 2010 Australian Women's Open. "I realized we won on the last hole."

Han, who advanced to the third round of the 2010 U.S. Women's Amateur, set the championship record for lowest 72-hole score by an individual at 275, one stroke better than Jenny Chuasiriporn of the USA in 1998. Teammates Ji-Hee Kim and Hyun-Soo Kim were second and third, respectively, in the individual scoring.

"The Korean people who live in Argentina gave us applause and support," said Han, 17, who won the 2008 Queen Sirikit Cup. "I felt the pressure because I wanted to win this with the team."

The USA finished second at 563 for its 19th medal overall and third silver-medal performance. Danielle Kang, the 2010 U.S. Women's Amateur champion, shot 70 and Auburn University All-American Cydney Clanton shot 73.

"It was a huge margin," American captain Roberta Bolduc said of Korea's 13-stroke lead to start the final round. "The Koreans played incredibly well. Our team played well but we didn't make a lot of putts. The silver medal sits very well. Second in the world is not a bad thing. In fact, it's a good thing."

In the second and third rounds, both at Buenos Aires Golf Club, the Koreans ran away from the field by firing a scorching 26 under par. Their record-setting stretch of play led to a championship-best 54-hole total of 25-under-par 407, bettering the USA's 416 in 1998.

Defending champion Sweden, France and South Africa finished tied for third at 572. Sweden kept its streak alive by finishing in the top 10 in all 24 Espirito Santo Trophy competitions.

Spain finished sixth at 573 followed by Canada in seventh at 574. Germany, the Philippines and New Zealand shared eighth place at 575.

Championship History

What began as a proposal for a match in 1964 between the USA and France grew into the Women's World Amateur Team Championship.

The impetus for this championship was an invitation by the French Golf Federation for the USA Curtis Cup Team to stop off in France for an informal match after that year's Curtis Cup Match in Wales.

The USGA accepted the invitation, but also suggested inviting other nations to create a women's counterpart to the World Amateur Team Championship. That event for men's teams began in 1958 after an invitation from Japan to establish a match between the two nations.

The French were delighted to sponsor the inaugural women's championship and arranged for it to be played at the St. Germain Golf Club, near Paris, in October 1964. The event, under the chairmanship of Vicomtesse de Saint-Sauveur, was a triumph.

A total of 25 teams and 75 players participated, which instantly established the competition as a member of international golf's family of championships. Spectator enthusiasm at the first championship was keen, since the host team prevailed over the USA by one stroke.

The French player Catherine Lacoste, who would later become a heroine of the amateur game when she won the 1967 U.S.

Women's Open, was a big factor in the excitement in her home country. Her final-round 73 secured the Espirito Santo Trophy for France. Lacoste tied with Carol Sorenson of the USA at 294 for medalist honors.

While no prize is given for individual scoring, Jenny Chuasiriporn of the USA lowered the 72-hole individual scoring record in 1998. She shot 276 at Prince of Wales Country Club in Santiago, Chile, two shots better than the score returned by countrywoman Wendy Ward four years earlier at The National Golf Club in Versailles, France. Jung-Eun Han of Korea broke Chuasiriporn's record with a 275 at Olivos Golf Club and Buenos Aires Golf Club in Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 2010.

In 1966, the World Amateur Golf Council assumed sponsorship of future Women's World Amateur Team Championships. Since its second-place finish in the inaugural, the USA has dominated, winning 13 times. Australia (1978, 2002), Spain (1986, 1992), Sweden (2004, 2008), France (1964, 2000) and Korea (1996, 2010) are the only other multiple victors.

For the first time, in 2002, the championship for the Espirito Santo Trophy was played on two courses.

In 2003, the organization's name was changed to the International Golf Federation.
