Philip Barbaree Wins the 2015 Championship

Philip Barbaree, 17, of Shreveport, La., matched the largest comeback in U.S. Junior Amateur history in defeating Andrew Orischak, 16, of Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Trailing 5 down with eight holes remaining, Barbaree managed to rally for a 37-hole win on the 7,366-yard, par-72 Colleton River Plantation Club's Dye Course. It was the most holes played in championship history since the USGA went to a 36-hole final 10 years prior.

In becoming the first Louisiana resident to win the U.S. Junior Amateur since Willie Wood (Lake Charles) in 1977, Barbaree matched Andy Hyeon Bo Shim's comeback three years ago at the Golf Club of New Hampshire for the largest comeback in the event's 68-year history. Shim trailed 2010 champion Jim Liu, 5 down, at the lunch break before winning eight of the next 10 holes for a 4-and-3 victory.

For a player who shares the same Dallas-based instructor (Cameron McCormick) as 2015 U.S. Open champion Jordan Spieth, Barbaree's comeback was more similar to another multiple U.S. Junior Amateur champion: Tiger Woods. Woods rallied from 2 down with two to play to claim the last of his three consecutive titles in 1993. He also came back in the final match of all three of his consecutive U.S. Amateur victories from 1994-96.

Barbaree joins Woods and Spieth on the U.S. Junior Amateur Trophy, along with the likes of Johnny Miller, Hunter Mahan, David Duval and Gary Koch.

"It's definitely the biggest junior tournament out there and to win it means a lot," said Barbaree, who received a congratulatory text messages from McCormick. "It says a lot about how much I've been practicing for this and how hard I've been working for this."

A large gallery of approximately 500 spectators watched the final match on a sun-splashed day, the first since Monday's opening round of stroke play that was not affected by a weather delay. Because of those suspensions, Barbaree played 84 holes in two days, and he admitted to being low on energy by the afternoon portion of the final match.

"I got four or five hours of sleep [Friday] night," said Barbaree. "Then to come out and play 84 holes, I had no idea how to do it."

Most of the gallery, however, came to support Orischak, a rising junior at Hilton Head High who plays out of Long Cove Club.

And Orischak was in full control of the match with eight holes remaining. That's when the 11th hole, the same par 5 where he started his morning rally to go from 3 down to all square, became pivotal again.

Barbaree got up and down for birdie to end an 18-hole winless streak that stretched back to the par-4 10th hole in the morning. Another birdie on the par-4 30th hole (No. 12 on the course) trimmed Orischak's lead to 3 up.

Two holes later, the margin was down to two, and when Barbaree registered a winning par on the 33rd hole, Orischak's lead was only 1 up. It stayed that way until the par-4 36th hole, where Orischak, No. 631 in the WAGR, pushed his tee shot out of bounds. When Barbaree coaxed his birdie putt to a foot for a conceded par, the match headed to extra holes, the first in a U.S. Junior Amateur final in 13 years.

Orischak admitted that he might have thought too much about having his name engraved on the trophy before completing the task.

"The whole week I just said I was going to hit one shot at a time and I thought that the mentally toughest person was going to win," said Orischak. "And it wasn't me because I got ahead of myself. I was thinking about winning before the match was over, and I still had golf to be played."

Playing the par-4 15th hole, Orischak again was errant off the tee, this time pulling his drive left into high rough. His approach flew the green and found a dirt cart path. After taking relief twice for tire tracks that impeded his stance and swing, he failed to reach the green with his third. Barbaree, meanwhile, found the green with his approach and a three-putt bogey was good enough to take the title.

"I was thinking [on the green], don't get emotional now," said Barbaree. "After he hit over the green, something hit me. I knew there was a possibility of him two-putting for bogey. I was just doing my job of two-putting. I really didn't have the speed [on the greens] all day ... and I lagged my 3-footer [for par]. I'm happy about it, too."

The final began as if Barbaree might run away with this championship. He built a 3-up lead after 10 holes before Orischak, the runner-up in last year's South Carolina 3A high school state tournament, won three consecutive holes with birdies. He later birdied the par-5 16th and added a winning par on No. 18 for a 2-up lead at the lunch break.

Buoyed by that momentum and the supportive gallery, Orischak birdied the first two holes of the afternoon round, including a 22-footer on the 19th, for a 4-up lead. Barbaree lipped out a 5-foot par putt to lose the 25th hole and go 5 down. The status remained that way for the next four holes before Barbaree began his historic comeback.

Championship History

In 1948, the USGA inaugurated the U.S. Junior Amateur Championship to determine the best junior golfer in the United States and also to help junior golfers learn how to realize the most from the game, win or lose.

The Junior Amateur was hardly the first junior competition to attract a national field. The Western Junior had been established in 1914. In 1946, two more competitions appeared, each with a claim on the national title. One was sponsored by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, the other by the Hearst Newspapers.

The first U.S. Junior Amateur was played at the University of Michigan Golf Course and drew 495 entries. The starting field of 128 players was determined by sectional qualifying rounds at 41 sites. Dean Lind, of Rockford, Ill., was the first champion. Lind defeated Ken Venturi, of San Francisco, a future U.S. Open champion, in the final.

By 1963, entries had surged to 2,230, a record for the 13th consecutive year. At the time, there was no handicap limitation for entrants. That changed in 1964 when a handicap limit of 10 strokes was introduced. In 1999, the championship attracted a record 4,508 entries.

In 1978, the USGA conducted the Junior Amateur over the South Course of the Wilmington (Del.) Country Club, while the Girls' Junior was being staged on the North Course. This was the first time the USGA conducted two national championships simultaneously at the same golf club.

The Junior Amateur is among the most difficult of all USGA championships to win due to two factors: the age limit and the tremendous number of fine young players who enter each year. Only one player, Tiger Woods, has won the Junior Amateur three times, winning in 1991, 1992 and 1993. Jordan Spieth, who first won in 2009, became the second player to claim more than one title when he won the 2011 championship. In fact, only seven players have reached the final at least twice: Mason Rudolph (1949, 1950), Eddie Pearce (1968, 1969), Mike Brannan (1971, 1973); Tim Straub (1982, 1983); Woods; Spieth; and Jim Liu (2010, 2012).

Woods, who was 15 years, 6 months and 28 days old when he won in 1991, was the youngest champion until 2010. At 14 years, 11 months and 15 days, Liu broke Woods' record by more than six months with his victory.

The Junior Amateur has another, more dubious, distinction. It is the only USGA championship for which Jack Nicklaus has been eligible that he did not win at least once. Nicklaus qualified for the championship five times; however, his best finish came in 1956, when he was a semifinalist.

The Junior Amateur remains today an educational opportunity as well as a competitive outlet. Pre-championship players' dinners have attracted guest speakers such as Francis Ouimet, Arnold Palmer, Johnny Miller and Annika Sorenstam, all willing to share their knowledge and experience with young players.
