Chad Wilfong and Davis Womble Win the 2022 Championship

There is no more medalist jinx in the U.S. Amateur Four-Ball Championship. A pair of Wake Forest alums, Chad Wilfong and Davis Womble, became the first side to medal in stroke play and go on to win the championship with a dramatic, come-from-behind, 19-hole victory over Drew Kittleson and Drew Stoltz on the West Course of the Country Club of Birmingham.

It was the second consecutive year that the championship match was decided in extra holes.

“Oh, there are no words,” said Wilfong. “That’s kind of the pinnacle of what you strive to achieve in this game. I tried my hand at the professional level [for 10 years], so had other kind of goals and objectives, but there’s nothing bigger than a USGA championship.”

“I think we always believed that we could do it. You just have to go get it done, and it’s hard to get it done.”

Wilfong, 41, of Charlotte, N.C., and Womble, 28, of Winston-Salem, N.C., who were co-medallists with Torey Edwards and Bret Parker, and Carter Loflin and Wells Williams with a 13-under-par total of 128 in stroke play, were the first medalist side in seven iterations of the competition to even make it to the final.

And they made it quite memorable.

Down to their last putt on the 18th green and trailing by a hole, Wilfong delivered one of the biggest putts of his career. His 52-degree wedge from 115 yards stopped 8 feet from the flagstick. Moments earlier, Kittleson and Womble had both failed to convert their birdie chances – the former from 25 feet and the latter from 18 – leaving it all up to Wilfong.

Two holes earlier, the 2021 North & South Amateur semifinalist had missed a 5-foot birdie to win the hole but had bounced back to convert a clutch 12-footer for par on No. 17 that ultimately tied the hole and extended the match.

In fact, neither side had won a hole since Wilfong had a short birdie putt conceded on the par-4 ninth.

Facing a win-or-go-home situation, Wilfong, a 2003 Wake Forest graduate, coolly converted to force extra holes.

On the 372-yard, par-4 19th – the first hole of the West Course – neither Kittleson, 33, nor Stoltz, 37, found the fairway, something they struggled to do the entire championship, while their opponents were each in good position.

Wilfong’s approach stopped 20 feet behind the flagstick and Womble saw his ball nearly spin back into the penalty area, stopping on the fringe. Kittleson had to punch out from the rough and his third was a beauty to 10 feet. Stoltz’s second from the left rough rolled behind the green into the rough, and his excellent recovery pitch rolled 7 feet past the flagstick.

Neither Wilfong nor Womble converted, and then they agonizingly waited to see if Kittleson or Stoltz could drain par putts to keep the match going. Both missed and the match ended as the sun was about to set.

“It’s just devastating,” said Kittleson, who also was the runner-up in the 2008 U.S. Amateur at Pinehurst No. 2.

Said Stoltz: “To make bogey on this hole to end it, I think that’s a tough one.”

The loss ended an improbable run for the two Scottsdale, Ariz., residents. Eight days ago, they weren’t even in the field. But then 2019 semifinalists Troy Vannucci and Vincent Kwon – an exempt side – withdrew, meaning the USGA had to go to the allotment list. The Litchfield, Ariz., site was up next in the rotation. First alternates Ted Gray and Travis Milleman turned down the spot, so that left Stoltz and Kittleson, the second alternates from the qualifier last fall, to get the spot.

Kittleson was supposed to be in Austin, Texas, this week on business and Stoltz was scheduled to fly to Tulsa, Okla., to do his SiriusXM Radio show (Gravy and The Sleaze) with two-time USGA champion and current CBS on-course reporter Colt Knost. In fact, many players were tweeting their support for the popular Stoltz, who also does a weekly podcast for Golf.com (Subpar) with Knost. They even had to find an alternate hotel on Tuesday night because their current lodging didn’t have any vacancies.

Wilfong and Womble got off to a slow start, losing the first two holes, including the par-4 second with a bogey that ended a 56-hole streak in match play without a blemish. The two long-time friends – despite being 13 years apart they each grew up at Colonial Country Club in Thomasville, N.C. – stayed patient and got back to 1 down at the turn.

It remained that way until the 18th hole.

Wilfong and Womble had a couple of hours to wait in between their semifinal victory on Wednesday morning and the start of the 18-hole final.

That’s because they recorded a 7-and-5 win over No. 2 seeds Loflin, 18, of Duluth, Ga., and Williams, 18, of West Point, Miss. It was the largest semifinal victory in the short history of the championship, surpassing the 5-and-4 mark produced by 2018 champions Garrett Barber and Cole Hammer.

In the other semifinal match, Stoltz and Kittleson eliminated 2008 U.S. Junior Amateur runner-up Evan Beck, 31, of Virginia Beach, Va., and former Wake Forest assistant coach Dan Walters, 37, of Winston-Salem, N.C., 2 and 1.

Notable - Wilfong and Womble join an illustrious group of Wake Forest alums who have won USGA championships, including Arnold Palmer, Curtis Strange, Lanny Wadkins, Webb Simpson, Jay Sigel and current PGA Tour professional Will Zalatoris.

The U.S. Amateur Four-Ball Championships were first played in 2015 but the genesis of these USGA competitions was years in the making.

As part of its mission to provide the best in national championship competition, the USGA began the process of developing and deploying these championships at the suggestion of Mike Davis, who served as the USGA’s chief executive officer from 2011-21.

Through extensive research and cooperation from the nation’s many state and regional golf associations, the planning and implementation by the USGA’s Rules & Competitions department produced a proposal to the Executive Committee, which was passed and ultimately announced at the USGA Annual Meeting in San Diego in 2013.

“We couldn’t be more excited about the creation of national four-ball championships, given the popularity and enjoyment of this competitive format at the amateur level,” said USGA Vice President and Championship Committee Chairman Thomas J. O’Toole Jr., at the time of the announcement. “Because the four-ball format lends itself to spirited team competition and aggressive risk-reward shotmaking, we are confident these championships will deliver exciting amateur golf to the national stage for both players and spectators alike.”

In 2012, more than 150 championships, either strictly four-ball or as part of a competition format, were conducted in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

The first two sites for each championship were announced in July of 2013: 2015 Four-Ball at The Olympic Club in San Francisco, Calif., and the 2016 Women’s Four-Ball at Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y. and the 2015 Women’s Four-Ball at Bandon Dunes Golf Resort in Bandon, Ore., and the 2016 Women’s Four-Ball at Streamsong Resort in Streamsong, Fla.

It marked the first time in 25 years, since the establishment of the U.S. Women’s Mid-Amateur in 1987, that the USGA had added a new championship.

The establishment of the Four-Ball championships was first and foremost a reflection of the Association’s continued commitment to supporting and growing amateur competition well into the future. A critical factor was that four-ball is a very popular event, not only at the club level, but through our state and regional golf associations (now Allied Golf Associations) who conduct championships like this every year and have for many years.

This format, more than most other formats, promotes camaraderie and perhaps players traveling together. The risk-reward element involved in two balls in play on each hole can produce some exciting golf and likely more birdies and eagles, which is attractive to competitors and fans.

In the inaugural year, 2015, the Four-Ball championships were the first USGA competitions to be televised by the Association’s then broadcast partner, Fox Sports, with both championships receiving four hours of live broadcast coverage.

In 2020, the U.S. Amateur Four-Ball was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.
