Wenyi Ding Wins the 2022 Championship

For the first time in its history, the U.S. Junior Amateur Trophy is headed to the People's Republic of China. Wenyi Ding, 17, who built an 8-up lead with eight holes to play, held on to defeat Caleb Surratt, 18, of Indian Trail, N.C., 3 and 2, on Saturday in the 36-hole final of the 74th edition of this USGA championship at Bandon Dunes Golf Resort.

Ding becomes the third player – and first male – from mainland China to win a USGA title. He joins Alice (Fumie) Jo and Lei Ye, who captured the 2014 U.S. Women's Amateur Public Links and the 2019 U.S. Girls' Junior, respectively. Ding also becomes the fifth international champion of the U.S. Junior, joining three players from the Republic of Korea (Terry Noe, Sihwan Kim and Andy Bo Hyeon Shim) and Min Woo Lee, of Australia. Three years ago, Bo Jin of China lost in the title match to Preston Summerhays.

Ding's name also will be etched on a trophy that includes a list of legendary U.S. Junior Amateur champions, U.S. Open champions Johnny Miller, Tiger Woods and Jordan Spieth, and 2022 Masters champion and current world No. 1 Scottie Scheffler among them.

When the match concluded, tears of joy flowed as Ding enjoyed a poignant moment with his caddie, Wil Lozano, and his father, Feng.

Ding's victory earns him an exemption into the 2023 U.S. Open at The Los Angeles (Calif.) Country Club, provided he remains an amateur.

The two finalists came into the championship match as the highest ranked players in the 264-player field. When the World Amateur Golf Ranking® was updated on Wednesday, Surratt (No. 19), an incoming University of Tennessee freshman, was one spot ahead of Ding (No. 20), who is planning to attend Arizona State University in 2023.

Surratt arrived at Bandon Dunes as one of the hottest amateurs – let alone juniors – in the country. He had finished no worse than ninth in his last nine competitions, which included victories in the prestigious Junior Invitational at Sage Valley and Terra Cotta Invitational. He also tied for second in last week's Pacific Coast Amateur in Portland, Ore., and was leading the points list of the Elite Amateur Series, a group of seven competitions that concludes with next week's Western Amateur at Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park, Ill.

Ding had not played a lot of golf in the United States before this year, but he did claim three consecutive Chinese Amateur Opens (2019-2021), and tied for third in the 2021 Volvo China Open, a professional event on the PGA Tour China. In his two events in the States this summer, he finished 21st in the Southern Amateur in St. Simons Island, Ga., and missed the match-play cut in the North & South Amateur at Pinehurst No.

2 in North Carolina, events where Surratt finished fourth and T-9 (lost in Round of 16), respectively.

"I'd say his consistency and his distance control were impeccable," Lozano said of Ding, who he met just last Saturday. "Anybody that comes out here to the Dunes, they're going to be tested, they're going to be challenged, but he was up for the challenge. Anytime we got into a messy situation, a tough situation, he was able to match it with a good shot."

Overcast skies and light winds greeted the players when they teed off early Saturday morning on the Bandon Dunes course. Conditions remained relatively calm the rest of the day with patches of sunshine and fog.

Going into Saturday's final, Surratt had not trailed at any point in match play, a string of 74 consecutive holes, but after 10 holes of the morning round, that streak was snapped. Ding, who shot the equivalent of 12 under par over the 34 holes (with match-play concessions), never relinquished the advantage.

But the match turned into a nail-biter on the back nine in the afternoon round when Surratt – who was 8 down with 8 holes to play – won five consecutive holes.

Ding's short birdie putt on the par-4 28th gave him the 8-up cushion, but a poor drive and subsequent unplayable lie on the par-4 29th hole led to his first bogey of the match. Surratt kept things going with three consecutive birdies to trim his deficit to 4 down. On the 148-yard, par-3 30th he made a 12-foot putt and then he two-putted from 15 feet on the 564-yard, par-5 31st hole.

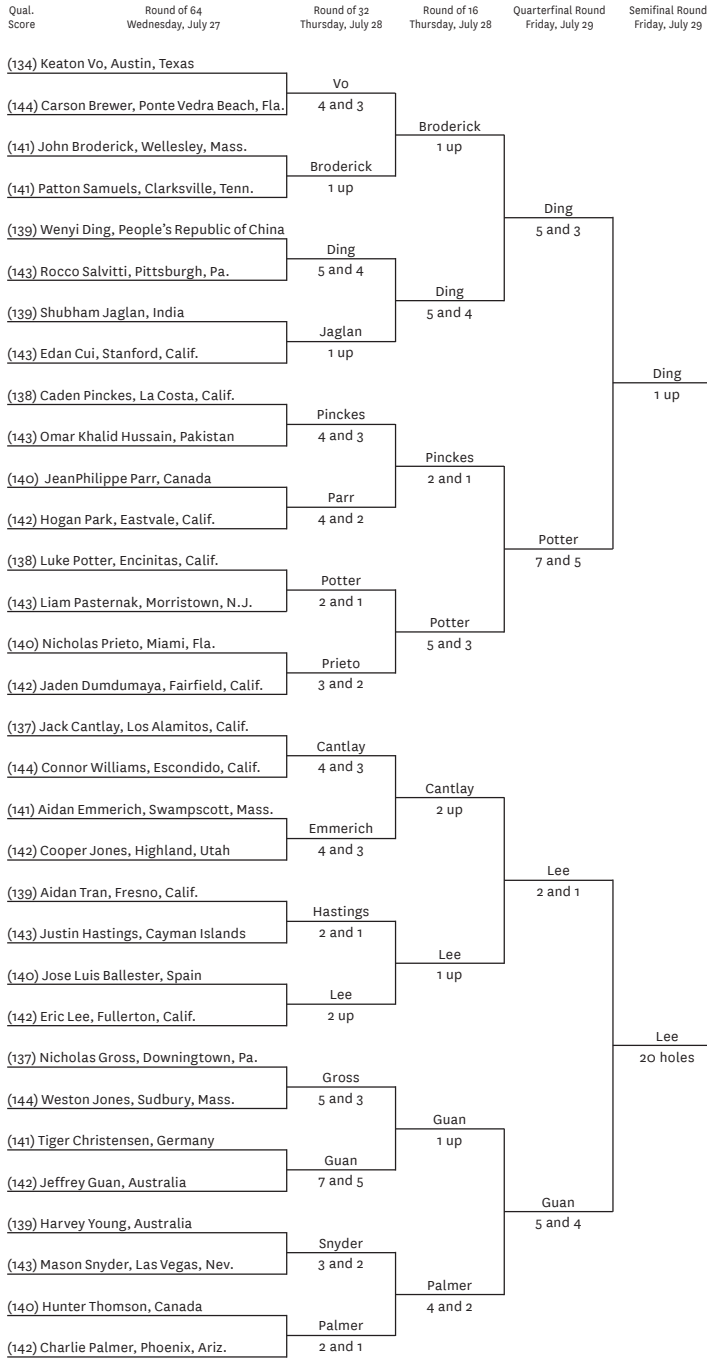

Then on the par-4 32nd hole, Surratt nearly holed out his approach for a 2. His birdie conceded, Ding had a chance to still tie the hole and clinch the match, only to lip out his 6-footer for birdie.

Ding missed the green on the 200-yard, par-3 33rd hole and when his next two chips failed to stay on the putting surface, he conceded Surratt's birdie and his lead was suddenly down to 3.

Surratt and Ding both missed the green left with their tee shots on the 361-yard 34th hole. Playing first, Ding pitched his ball to 8 feet, while Surratt took several minutes surveying his pitch. But he pulled it left, 25 feet from the flagstick and his subsequent birdie putt just drifted right of the hole. Ding then calmly lagged his birdie attempt to a foot and the championship was over.

Ding took a 3-up lead into the lunch break, shooting a 66 to Surratt's 70, with the usual match-play concessions. The two combined for 13 birdies.

Championship History

In 1948, the USGA inaugurated the U.S. Junior Amateur Championship to determine the best junior golfer in the United States and also to help junior golfers learn how to realize the most from the game, win or lose.

The Junior Amateur was hardly the first junior competition to attract a national field. The Western Junior had been established in 1914. In 1946, two more competitions appeared, each with a claim on the national title. One was sponsored by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, the other by the Hearst Newspapers.

The first U.S. Junior Amateur was played at the University of Michigan Golf Course and drew 495 entries. The starting field of 128 players was determined by sectional qualifying rounds at 41 sites. Dean Lind, of Rockford, Ill., was the first champion. Lind defeated Ken Venturi, of San Francisco, a future U.S. Open champion, in the final.

By 1963, entries had surged to 2,230, a record for the 13th consecutive year. At the time, there was no handicap limitation for entrants. That changed in 1964 when a handicap limit of 10 strokes was introduced. In 1999, the championship attracted a record 4,508 entries.

In 1978, the USGA conducted the Junior Amateur over the South Course of the Wilmington (Del.) Country Club, while the Girls' Junior was being staged on the North Course. This was the first time the USGA conducted two national championships simultaneously at the same golf club.

The Junior Amateur is among the most difficult of all USGA championships to win due to two factors: the age limit and the tremendous number of fine young players who enter each year. Only one player, Tiger Woods, has won the Junior Amateur three times, winning in 1991, 1992 and 1993. Jordan Spieth, who first won in 2009, became the second player to claim more than one title when he won the 2011 championship. In fact, only seven players have reached the final at least twice: Mason Rudolph (1949, 1950), Eddie Pearce (1968, 1969), Mike Brannan (1971, 1973); Tim Straub (1982, 1983); Woods; Spieth; Jim Liu (2010, 2012); and Noah Goodwin (2016, 2017).

Woods, who was 15 years, 6 months and 28 days old when he won in 1991, was the youngest champion until 2010. At 14 years, 11 months and 15 days, Liu broke Woods' record by more than six months with his victory.

The Junior Amateur has another, more dubious, distinction. It is the only USGA championship for which Jack Nicklaus has been eligible that he did not win at least once. Nicklaus qualified for the championship five times; however, his best finish came in 1956, when he was a semifinalist.

The Junior Amateur remains today an educational opportunity as well as a competitive outlet. Pre-championship players' dinners have attracted guest speakers such as Francis Ouimet, Arnold Palmer, Johnny Miller and Annika Sorenstam, all willing to share their knowledge and experience with young players.

In 2020, the U.S. Junior Amateur was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Aligning with ongoing USGA initiatives to expand support of junior golf, the field size for the U.S. Junior Amateur increased from 156 players to 264, beginning with the 2021 championship at The Country Club of North Carolina.
