USGA Announces 2017 U.S. Women's Open Sectional Qualifying Sites

Schedule features 21 U.S. and four international qualifiers from May 22-June 12

FAR HILLS, N.J. (March 13, 2017) - The United States Golf Association (USGA) today announced sectional qualifying sites for the 72nd U.S. Women's Open Championship, which will be contested July 13-16 at Trump National Golf Club in Bedminster, N.J. It will be the seventh U.S. Women's Open to be played in New Jersey, and the first in 30 years.

Sectional qualifying, conducted over 36 holes, will take place at 21 U.S. and four international sites between May 22 and June 12. The championship is open to female professionals, and female amateurs with a Handicap Index® not exceeding 2.4.

"Each year, the game's greatest female players tackle golf's most comprehensive test as they compete in the U.S. Women's Open, and sectional qualifying is the first step in that journey for many," said Stuart Francis, USGA Championship Committee chairman. "State and regional golf associations, as well as several international organizations, play an important role in this process, and we thank them for their efforts in helping to determine a worthy champion."

Online player registration is available at www.usga.org/applytoplay. The entry deadline is 5 p.m. EDT on Wednesday, May 17.

For the fourth consecutive year, Women's Open sectional qualifying will be conducted in England, Japan, the People's Republic of China and the Republic of Korea. Three courses return as international sites: Buckinghamshire Golf Club, in Buckinghamshire, England, on June 5; Lan Hai International Golf Club, in Shanghai, the People's Republic of China, on June 5; and Woo Jeong Hills Country Club, in Cheonan, the Republic of Korea, on June 12. Hino Golf Club in Shinga Prefecture, Japan, will host its first Women's Open sectional qualifier on May 22.

Industry Hills Golf Club, near Los Angeles, will host Women's Open sectional qualifying for the ninth consecutive year on May 30. The club was also a sectional site in 1980 and 1982. Additionally, Industry Hills' Eisenhower Course is scheduled to host U.S. Open local qualifying for the 10th consecutive year in June.

Four past USGA championship sites will host 2017 U.S. Women's Open sectional qualifying: Riverdale Golf Course, in Brighton, Colo., on May 24; Hidden Creek Golf Club, in Egg Harbor Township, N.J., and Lake Merced Golf Club, in Daly City, Calif., both on June 5; and The Woodlands (Texas) Country Club on June 6.

Lake Merced, site of the 1990 U.S. Junior Amateur and the 2012 U.S. Girls' Junior championships, is hosting sectional qualifying for the eighth time. Riverdale Golf Course and Hidden Creek Golf Club will be sectional qualifying sites for the second time. Riverdale hosted the 1993 U.S. Amateur Public Links and Hidden Creek hosted the 2015 U.S. Senior Amateur. The Woodlands Country Club, site of the 1989 U.S. Senior Women's Amateur, is hosting sectional qualifying for the sixth consecutive year on its Player Course.

Two U.S. Women's Open champions have reached the championship through sectional qualifying: Hilary Lunke (2003) and Birdie Kim (2005). Lunke won after advancing through local and sectional qualifying, while Kim competed in the sectional stage.

Considered the world's premier golf championship for women in golf, the U.S. Women's Open is one of 13 national championships conducted annually by the USGA. The championship was first contested in 1946 and its winners include Betsy Rawls (1951, '53, '57, '60), Mickey Wright (1958, '59, '61, '64), Babe Didrikson Zaharias (1948, '50, '54), Susie Maxwell Berning (1968, '72, '73), Hollis Stacy (1977, '78, '84), Annika Sorenstam (1995, '96, 2006), Juli Inkster (1999, 2002), Karrie Webb (2000, '01), Inbee Park (2008, '13), Paula Creamer (2010), Cristie Kerr (2007) and Michelle Wie (2014).
